

Flaig, Judy

From: Harris, Jacquelynn C
Sent: Thursday, May 10, 2007 6:04 PM
To: Flaig, Judy
Subject: FW: Post to Warehouse

From: Robert Sparks [mailto:rrsparks@sparkscraig.com]
Sent: Tuesday, May 08, 2007 11:53 AM
To: Luca, Margaret K.; 'Reed, Thomas'; Harris, Jacquelynn C
Subject: RE: Post to Warehouse

Maggi: you did such an adroit job with the Post, why, the Gazette guy should be child's play. He'll be looking for an angle, though, so don't let him get you to say anything directly critical of Vienna. We're just considering our options, etc., and of course we'll be discussing with the Vienna folks how best to work with them on their elections in the future. Make him go pick on Vienna elected officials to get juicy quotes.

Anything critical (or seemingly critical) means he goes to them for comment, and the ping pong quotes game is on with the press writing a new story every day.

Bob Sparks

Sparks & Craig, LLP
Office: 703-848-4700
Fax: 703-893-7371

From: Luca, Margaret K. [mailto:Margaret.Luca@fairfaxcounty.gov]
Sent: Tuesday, May 08, 2007 11:39 AM
To: Robert Sparks; Reed, Thomas; Harris, Jacquelynn C
Subject: Post to Warehouse

Bill Turque, Washington Post reporter, will go to the warehouse tomorrow, Wednesday, around 11:30 to view programming of machines.
Judy will be there along with David and the rovers.

Brian Trumpeter, Gazette reporter, just called about Vienna elections.

Maggi